TRUNK PRELIMINARY SWING

ENTRY

COMPARATIVE TECHNICAL ANALYSIS :

Cristjan CEH
Daniel STAHL
Simon PETERSSON

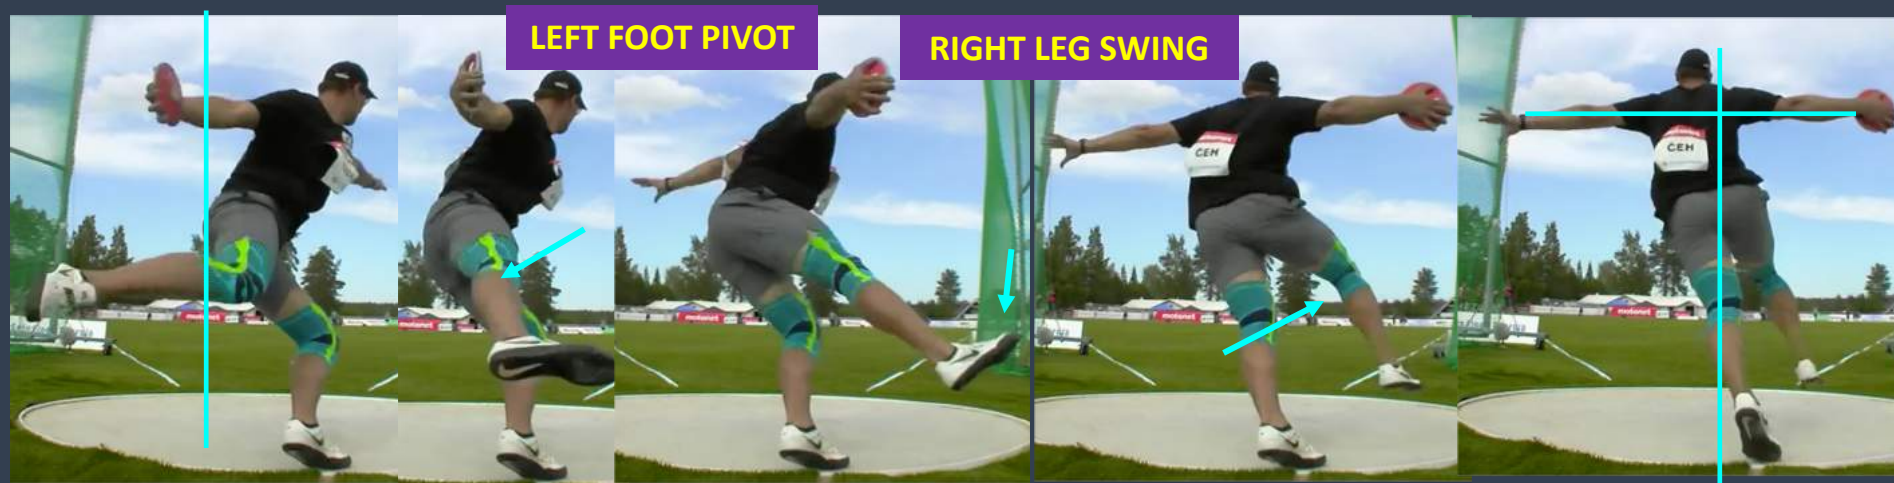

CEH stance is shifted to the right . He has the widest left arm opening and the trunk bent toward 90* left

STAHL is very upright , and has solid well balanced postures

PETERSSON also looks for a long range of arm opening with good body weight transfer over the left leg and has relatively less leg flexion

Note that the carrying of the discus is different

RIGHT LEG SWING

COMPARATIVE TECHNICAL ANALYSIS :

Cristjan CEH

Daniel STAHL

Simon PETERSSON

CEH has a wide and high right leg swing and right knee drive with a perfect "T" posture facing the direction of the throw STAHL has a reduced right leg swing, low, close to the body and not fully. He is pivoting in one block.

PETERSSON as also a relatively narrow right leg action quite close to the ground

All three throwers are facing with the chest in direction of the throw in a perfect "T" position at the end of the right leg swing

' posture and his chest of the throw UNTIL HIS ED ! He also keeps his direction. Right foot is in landing and toes facing 90*

he right foot on the tip of right with his chest . His in a curious "saluting"

All three throwers are landing the right foot approximatively in the same spot at the centre of the circle.
